

Perris, CA Chooses Software Designed for Code Enforcement

Department Implements Comcate Code Enforcement Manager Software

The Challenge:

The rapidly growing city of Perris is located midway between San Diego and Los Angeles. The city's code enforcement department was having trouble with its case tracking system and needed to switch to a different software solution for code enforcement case management.

The Solution:

Comcate Code Enforcement Manager Software was designed by code enforcement officers and supervisors to maximize department efficiency by increasing officers' time spent in the field. It provides access to live case and code data and gives officers the ability to schedule follow-up appointments and create detailed activity reports while in the field. Comcate, Inc. is the leading provider of request tracking software for public agencies throughout the United States.
